

Bio: Marcelino Flores, Community Development Coordinator
Community Development, Development Services, Pascua Yaqui Tribe,
Tucson, AZ

An enrolled Tribal member of the Pascua Yaqui Tribe, Marcelino is comprehensively familiar with opportunities and issues associated to water related activities. He has served as the Pascua Yaqui Tribe jurisdictional representative at the Pima Association of Governments Environmental Planning Advisory Committee for over five years. Initially, within the Tribe, he was involved in researching Central Arizona Project (CAP)/Tucson Active Management Area (TAMA) history, renewable energies, and water conservation technologies he has received specific training from the Bureau of Reclamation, National Renewable Energy Lab, and Economic Development Institute. Moreover, with Tribal support, he is actively pursuing certification as an economic developer as accredited by the International Economic Development Council. Fittingly, he is passionate in achieving local self-sufficiency and regional balance linking resource management, emerging technologies, and economic development.
